

Reise in den Orient: Volume 2 (Cambridge Library Collection - Travel, Middle East and Asia Minor) (German Edition)

Reise in den Orient (1846) is the German biblical scholar Constantin von Tischendorfs recollection of his journey to Egypt, Israel and Greece at the beginning of the 1840s. The work is a travel diary that vividly describes Tischendorfs meeting with mythological places and impressive men, and a learned account of the Christian history of the area. Volume 2 of this work largely focuses on Tischendorfs time in Israel. He writes about Jesus crucifixion and Golgothas significance, and gives an historical account of Jerusalem as the centre of all religions. He pays particular attention to the Anglican Diocese of Jerusalem, which leads him to explain the differences between German and English Protestantism. On his return journey, he is enraptured by Smyrna and Constantinople, and enjoys visiting the Athenian Acropolis and the other ruins of the ancient city.
