

Optina pustyn: Russkaia pravoslavnaia dukhovnost (Istoriia khristianskoi mysli v pamiatnikakh) (Russian Edition)

Optina Pustyn was a monastery near the town of Kozelsk founded in the 14th century. The main distinction of the place were its elders (spiritual advisers) who lived in seclusion near the monastery. The first part of the book contains five Lives of the Startsy, their homilies and correspondence. Part 2 includes Gogols letters, K. Leontevs articles, and extracts from The Karamazov Brothers by Dostoevskii directly inspired by experiences at the monastery. Supplemented by an analytical commentary.
