

Their Greatest Disgrace - The Campaign to Clear the Chinook ZD576 Pilots

What sets our Servicemen and women apart? They choose to place themselves in danger so that we may live in peace. If they die in the line of duty they, and their families, deserve our deepest respect. Instead, the pilots of Chinook ZD576 were unjustly accused of gross negligence, by those with most to lose if the truth was revealed. The aircraft was not airworthy, however this was concealed from the crew and passengers. After a 17 year campaign, when this evidence was presented to the Mull of Kintyre Review the findings were set aside. This book is an inside view of the campaign, and of MoD itself. It discusses the events which brought the RAF into disrepute and reveals the evidence withheld from official inquiries.
